in Ogden for the purpose of investigating the matter of the alleged rob-bery of the bank a few months prior to that time, the bank claiming that the mysterious $2,410 which was addressed to Charles Price of Ogden and delivered through the mails to Charles Price of Five Points. The next day after the delivery of the parcel containing the money a man appeared at the local postoffice and asked for mail for Charles Price. He was immediately suspicioned of being the one who had sent the mysterious package and an attempt was made to arrest him, but he made his getaway. The detective referred to had with him the photograph of a man whom the officers and the Portland bank officials suspected of having robbed the kept under strict surveillance. This photograph was shown to Mrs. Datsy A. McGaw who had a good opportunity to see the man who had appeared at the postoffice and inquired for mail for Charles Price, and she unhesitatingly recognized it as the photograph of the man. With this identification in his possession, the detective has-tened back to Portland and the man who was under the eye of the officers of the law was immediately arrested at Tacoma, Washington, and is now being held on the charge of robbery. A suit is The officials of the plant stated that the machine for wrapping oranges was a success in every way and they were now pending in the Federal court of Utah instituted by the government for trying to perfect a similar one which would handle peaches. Their efforts, however, were not, as yet, entirely suc-cessful, the peaches being so much more liable to slight bruises and the IN THE RAILROAD SHOPS resultant discoloration and decay. Mr. Forristall was of the opinion that our local white apples could not be pack-ed by machinery for shipment to the Foreman Eastman is pushing along work on the new shop gallery rapidly and nearly two thirds of the structural California markets owing to their ex-treme sensitiveness to bruise. Valuable Information.

J. M. Forristall, manager of the Ogden Fruit Growers' association, who has just returned with his wite from an extended visit in California, predicts several things in connection with

While visiting the various fruit sections of California, Mr. Forristail was assured by the commission men that there was a market in Southern Cali-fernia for Utah apples if the same were properly packed. Especial stress was laid on the matter of packing, the commission people stating that a good pack was absolutely necessary it Utah fruit was to find a reliable mar-het in their state. Utah apples have, from time to time, found their way to the markets mentioned but al-though some were found to be well packed, that condition could not be de-pended upon, which, of course, in ured the reputation of Utah apples. The tigation of machinery for preparing fruit for market. He spent several days in the orange district in the vicinity of Los Angeles, Redlands and elsewhere, where he carefully inspected all the various methods used in gathering, grading, sorting, wrapping.

packing and storing oranges as well as other fruits. He was particularly interested in the only plant in the state which prepares its fruit entirely by machinery, printing its own wrap-pers and enclosing the fruit automatically. This plant also manufacturer its fruit boxes from wood pulp, 20 carloads of which material in huge sheets, was on the tracks at the time of interest to Ogden growers.

Mr. Forristall found much to convince him that Utah was not getting a fair deal from the transportation companies east of Utah. While Call-fornia fruit growers receive a flat rate will follow as the floors are completed and the entire gallery will have been completed and equipped with to all points east of the Missouri river, Utah growers are not given the same consideration, but must put up with a variable rate, according to the destination of their shipments. The Ogden benches and new machinery before association will make a strenuous effort to relieve the situation in this section and obtain, if possible, a fairer rate for the fruit growers.

Mr. Forristall joined his wife and the family of S. J. Griffin at Los Angeles, where they had preceded him by a month or more, and then visited ints of interest, including the ocean resorts contiguous to Los Angeles, and returned by the way of San Francisco. At Redlands he visit-ed the famous Smiley Heights, the beautiful park and grounds laid out on an eminence adjoining the city by two brothers of wealth who had a hob-by of setting out in their wonderful home a specimen of every species of tree, shrub and plant known in the civilized world. He also took in the sights of Pasadena where the wonderful Busch Gardens are located-the winter home of the head of the Annheuser-Busch Brewing interests of St. Louis. This is acknowledged to be one of the most beautiful spots in the western hemisphere, and the fact that Mr. Busch should select a "dry" town (Pasadena has always been strictly temperance), for the location of his beautiful home and the invest-ment of millions of dollars in luxuries, is a fact often commented upon.

WORK ON THE VIADUCT IS PRO-GRESSING RAPIDLY.

Spectators Gather to See the Structural Steel Men Handle the Material For the Bridge.

Four big steel towers on the west end of the new viaduct have been completed, and Contractor Dundas now has his force of steel workers em-ployed in connecting the towers with massive girders and heavy steel cross-beams. The work is progressing even faster than was anticipated, and, it the present clear weather continues, two weeks will mark a radical change in the appearance of that section of the yard as a result of construction work on the big bridge.

The interest evinced in the work is shown by the large crowd watching proceedings. The easy and quick manner in which the heavy material is swung into place and promptly bolted and riveted excites the favorable comment of those attracted to the work.
